

PROCEDURE

First, a small tube, called a catheter, is inserted into the groin to access the vessels that surround your fibroids.

PROCEDURE

The radiologist then injects microspheres through the catheter.

